GENERAL INFORMATION

Mission Statement

Saint Mark's College is committed to promoting an authentic Christian humanism, marked by the pursuit of academic excellence and animated by a joy of searching for, discovering and communicating truth in every field of knowledge. It prepares graduates who continually strive to integrate and synthesize faith and reason, women and men who think rigorously, so as to act rightly and to serve humanity better.

Saint Mark's College, as an affiliated theological college of UBC, offers a variety of graduate academic programs for the formation of Catholic professionals and continuing education opportunities for adults. Through its Campus Ministry, the College provides a dynamic pastoral presence and faith development opportunities for students, faculty and staff who work and study on the university campus.

Statement of Values

1. Jesus Christ is the Way, the Truth and the Life, and in striving to live His mission, the College is inspired by and committed to the teachings of the Church. As a Catholic educational institution operating in accordance with Ex corde Ecclesiae, the College endeavours systematically to ensure that the treatment of the individual disciplines is consonant with their own principles, their own methods, and with the true liberty of scientific inquiry. Its object is that the convergence of Faith and Reason in the one Truth may be seen more clearly through a progressively deeper understanding of these disciplines, especially the liberal arts and an emphasis on the study of philosophy and theology, and by careful attention to the current problems of these changing times and to the research being undertaken (Vatican II, Christian Education, 10). The fidelity of the College to the Christian message includes recognition of, and adherence to, the teaching authority of the Church in matters of faith and morals. Catholic members of the College's community are also called to personal fidelity to the Church, with all that this implies. Non-Catholic members are required to respect the Catholic character of the College, while the College in turn respects their religious liberty. (ECE, 26).
2. The College treasures the legacy handed on by the Congregation of St. Basil who, under the leadership of Fr. Henry Carr, CSB, founded St. Mark's in 1956 and served the College and the University until their departure in 2005.
3. The College is committed to the development of the whole person, delivering academic excellence and ensuring academic freedom within a welcoming and inclusive faith community and an ethnically, socially, and economically diverse student body.
4. The College is committed to the preparation of leaders for the Church and society.
5. The College is committed to promulgating and integrating into the curriculum the social teachings of the Church and to providing opportunities for all members of the student body to engage in formational outreach work globally and locally.
6. The College values its relationship with the University of British Columbia and continues to foster mutually-beneficial relationships.

Charter

The Saint Mark's College Act (Item 1.1), which was approved in the Provincial Legislature of British Columbia in 1956, established Saint Mark's College as a "Roman Catholic educational institution in the City of Vancouver," governed by a Board of Management (which we refer to as our Board of Directors) and a Senate, and able to "grant degrees in theology only, including honorary degrees and certificates of proficiency in theology as the Senate may determine," as per Section 15.

Saint Mark's College has an affiliation agreement with the University of British Columbia, which includes the provision that each institution has a representative on the other's Senate.

Admissions

Minimum Requirements and Eligibility

SMC as a Catholic Theological College is broad-based in its admission protocol.

Admission to any of the graduate degree programs requires:

- Baccalaureate degree from an institution accredited by an agency recognized by the Council holding membership in the Association of Universities and Colleges in Canada, or a degree which, in the judgment of Saint Mark's College Senate, is of equivalent standing.
- Students should have the interests, aptitudes, and personal qualities necessary for the particular application of the degree they are seeking.
- Students should normally have a "B" average in their first degree.
- Candidates should be fluent enough in English to be able to participate actively in seminars and in writing essays and examinations.
- If English is not the applicant's first language, the candidate may be required to demonstrate English language proficiency by taking the English Placement Test and/or submitting scores from a standardized language proficiency test such as the TOEFL or IELTS.

5.2 Non-Traditional Learners

Candidates without an appropriate undergraduate degree may apply to the program as non-traditional learners. Under special circumstances, some students may be admitted without a first degree at the discretion of the Dean of Theology. Such applicants must write a history explaining how their work, volunteering, leisure activities, courses, etc. have contributed to their learning and preparation to take graduate theological courses. The Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada limits the number of students admissible without a first degree to a specific percentage per program.

SMC welcomes applications from international students. International students follow the College's application procedure, including submitting proof of citizenship and English language proficiency.

Candidates for admission to Saint Mark’s College must be sufficiently fluent in both spoken and written English to participate actively in seminars, and to meet the demands of essays and examinations. Applicants with degrees obtained from accredited universities where English was the language of instruction will be deemed to have met the English requirement. Applicants with 75% or higher in BC English 12 (or equivalent) will also be deemed to have met the English requirement. All other applicants will be asked to demonstrate their English proficiency by completing one of the following at the minimum levels indicated:

TOEFL	(paper-based)	590
TWE		5
TOEFL	(computer-based)	237
TWE		5
TOEFL	(internet-based)	88
IELTS		6.5 overall
MELAB		81 overall

Test scores must have been achieved within 24 months of the time of submission of the application. Do not send photocopies: official scores must be requested from the testing agency, and submitted at the time of application.

Conditional Admissions

A student who does not demonstrate the needed qualifications for admission to a program may be admitted on a conditional basis for up to one year. It is expected by the end of that year that the student will have fulfilled the requirement that was previously lacking.

Academic Honesty Policy

It is the responsibility of every student within the SMC academic community to engage in honest scholarly activity and not to participate in or abet any act of academic misconduct.

The faculty at SMC shall take all reasonable steps – including a statement in course syllabi – to educate students regarding academic honesty and to prevent and to detect dishonesty. It is the responsibility of faculty to confront any student when academic misconduct is suspected or observed and to take appropriate action according to the procedures outlined in this policy.

The Academic Honesty Policy of SMC requires faculty to report all cases of academic misconduct to the Office of the Dean of Theology.

In support of academic honesty and integrity, the Dean of Theology shall communicate this policy to students and faculty.

FORMS OF ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

Academic misconduct subject to penalties includes but is not limited to the following offences:

Cheating

Cheating is any act of deception by which a student misrepresents that he/she has understood or mastered information in an academic exercise. This includes copying from another student's examination or test, or using in examinations or tests any materials (notes, books, or electronic devices) other than those authorized by the examiners. Other forms of cheating include discussing questions or answers during an examination or test without prior approval from the faculty. It is also considered cheating to consult a faculty's teaching materials without the faculty's approval.

Inappropriate Collaboration

Faculty sometimes permit or even encourage specific forms of student collaboration, such as peer review, in-class group work, or joint assignments. However, unless the collaborative element is expressly part of the assignment or exam, students should not collaborate with each other without prior approval from faculty.

Other appropriate forms of collaboration include group study for in-class examinations, asking librarians for bibliographic suggestions, and having someone proof-read an assignment for spelling and grammar. However, proofreaders should only point out errors, not correct them. Unless they have faculty approval to do so, students should not have someone else edit an assignment for anything other than grammar and spelling, such as structure or logic. Nor should students work collaboratively with others on problem sets or other mathematical or scientific assignments without the prior approval of the faculty.

Inappropriate collaboration includes but is not limited to: using another person's work to complete an assignment; working together on assignments such as homework problems; sharing sources for take-home examinations; allowing another student to copy a test, examination, or assignment; or otherwise abetting any act of academic misconduct.

Duplication

Submitting the same assignment for credit more than once, even if the earlier submission was for a different course or institution.

Impersonation

Impersonating a candidate at an examination or availing oneself of the results of such impersonation.

Fraud or Misrepresentation

Submitting an assignment or any part of an assignment that has been purchased, stolen, or otherwise obtained, but is not the work of the submitter.

Falsification

Submitting false documents, transcripts, or other academic credentials, or failing to provide relevant information when requested.

Bribery or Coercion

Bribing, attempting to bribe, or coercing any other person to: obtain an unadministered test or examination or any information about such a test or examination; or abet any other act of academic misconduct.

Disruption

Disruption of instructional activities includes making it difficult for faculty to proceed with scheduled lectures, discussions, examinations, and tests.

Non-compliance

Failing to comply with any faculty member's warning or any penalty imposed for academic misconduct.

Plagiarism

Scholarship quite rightly rests upon examining and referring to the thoughts of others. However, when one submits written work for credit that includes the words, ideas, or data of others, the source of that information must be acknowledged in accurate and complete documentation (footnotes/endnotes or in-text citation, as required by the faculty) and, if verbatim statements are included, with quotation marks.

By placing his/her name on an assignment submitted for credit, the student implicitly certifies the originality of all work not otherwise identified in the appropriate acknowledgements.

Plagiarism is the intentional or unintentional inclusion of someone else's words, ideas, or research data as one's own; for example, using the words of another author without acknowledging the source, or paraphrasing without acknowledging the source. Plagiarism also includes documenting a written assignment with inaccurate text references (footnotes/endnotes or in-text citations) or incomplete source (bibliographic) information. When indebtedness is properly acknowledged, plagiarism is easily avoided.

It is solely the student's responsibility to have a clear and accurate understanding of what constitutes plagiarism, and to avoid any academic penalty the student should verify this understanding with the faculty member. A single instance of plagiarism will result in the failure of a paper; a second instance will result in the failure of the entire course and suspension from the program. Whenever there is plagiarism, a note will be placed on the student's academic record. Faculty has the responsibility to report the case to the Dean of Theology. The procedure below will be followed once a case is reported.

Procedure to be followed in instances of alleged plagiarism (an analogous procedure will be followed in all instances of alleged academic misconduct):

Event	Action	Outcome
At its September meeting, Senate names an Academic Honesty Committee (AHC) of 3 members, with 1 alternate member to be used in cases of conflict of interest. The AHC will not include the Principal, the Dean of Theology, or a student. The AHC will function from September – August.	The AHC will be ready to be called upon as needed, at which time the Dean of Theology will consider questions of potential conflict of interest. Because membership may change from case to case, the Dean of Theology will name the Chair each time the AHC is called upon.
Faculty member finds plagiarism	Speaks to student	No plagiarism. Case ends. No record.
	OR	Plagiarism is found. Faculty member keeps copies of everything (assignment, comments, email, correspondence). The assignment receives a mark of zero (0). Faculty must inform the Dean of Theology.

Student accepts the faculty member's decision of plagiarism	When Dean of Theology is informed, the Dean of Theology will write a letter to the student, with copies to the faculty member and the Office of Admissions and Records.	The letter remains on the student's record. If this is the only instance of plagiarism, it will be removed from the record at the time of graduation.
Student does not accept faculty member's decision of plagiarism	Case sent to Dean of Theology who reviews the materials, speaks to faculty member and student. The student has the right to have a support person present at the interview – this person is not present in a legal capacity.	No plagiarism. Case ends. No record. Dean of Theology will inform faculty member and student and ask Office of Admissions and Records to remove the record from the student's file.
	OR	Plagiarism found. Dean of Theology confirms the faculty member's decision. Mark of zero (0) for assignment stands. Dean of Theology will write a letter to the student, and copy the faculty member and the Office of Admissions & Records. The letter will be kept in the student's record.
Student does not accept Dean of Theology's decision of plagiarism	Dean of Theology forwards case to the AHC. The AHC will review materials, and speak to faculty member and student. The student has the right to have a support person present at the interview – this person is not present in a legal capacity.	No plagiarism found. The AHC Chair will inform the Dean of Theology who will inform the student, faculty member, and Office of Admissions and Records to remove record. The AHC Chair will report on Committee's activity at the next Senate meeting, keeping the name of the student confidential. Case ends.
	OR	Plagiarism found. The AHC Chair will inform the Dean of Theology and Senate that the mark of zero (0) for the assignment stands. The Dean of Theology will inform the faculty member, student, and Office of Admissions and Records.
2 nd time plagiarism is found	The Dean of Theology does not review the file. The case goes from the faculty member to the Dean of Theology who passes all materials to the AHC. The AHC will review materials, and speak to faculty member and student. The student has the right to have a support person present at the interview – this person is not present in a legal capacity.	No plagiarism found. The AHC Chair will inform the Dean of Theology who will inform the student, faculty member, and Office of Admissions and Records to remove record. The AHC Chair will report on Committee's activity at the next Senate meeting, keeping the name of the student confidential. Case ends.
	OR	Plagiarism is found, the student fails the course. The AHC informs the Dean of Theology who writes a letter for the file and informs the student, faculty member, and the Office of Admissions and Records. The student is suspended from the College for 2 years. Senate is informed.

Course Descriptions

Catholic Educational Leadership Courses

CALR 510: Leadership and Aims of Catholic Education

3.0 Credits

An overview of some of the seminal ideas of Catholic educational philosophy, their relationship to concepts found in the literature of the philosophy of education, and their contribution to the New Evangelization project envisioned for the Church.

CALR 520: Administration and Leadership in Catholic Schools

3.0 Credits

The course provides students with a range of foundational understandings which underpin current theories regarding Catholic educational leadership. Also, the course offers students the opportunities to study and reflect upon multiple conceptual and theoretical foundations of leadership in regards to educational policy and practice.

CALR 521: Catholic Educational Institution

3.0 Credits

This course is a study of leadership and organizational behavior in Catholic school. Schools as organizations are complex and ever-changing. Providing leadership in an educational institution requires an understanding of the dynamic forces that interplay in organizations. An understanding of the various paradigms and frameworks as to how people and leaders function in educational institutions serves as a foundation to any future study and practice in Catholic educational administration and leadership.

CALR 526: Curriculum, Assessment and Evaluation in Catholic Schools

3.0 Credits

The course presents contemporary approaches and strategies in planning, designing, implementing, and evaluating academic curricula. Also, the course presents the fundamental concepts and practical implementation of assessment in the teaching-learning paradigm. Informed by critical analysis of relevant research, students will produce a philosophy synthesizing the current trends in educational assessment and evaluation.

CALR 528: Current Issues in Catholic Education

3.0 Credits

The course leads the students to a critical understanding and analysis of the current issues and politics in Catholic Educational Leadership. Student will identify strategic solutions to various issues towards creating a positive culture in the educational system. Also, the course provides an opportunity for the students to review the policies and laws in Education, their implications and challenges to the educational system and practices.

CALR 600: Field Based Learning Project

3.0 Credits

An opportunity for an experience based learning situation. During the term students will meet on regular basis in order to serve the integration of ministry experience with academic and personal growth.

History Courses

HIST 505: History of the Church

3.0 Credits

A general survey course of the history of the Church since its inception 2000 years ago, the course will highlight major movements in the church as well as theology, spirituality, and culture.

Method Courses

Method Courses

St. Mark's College in partnership with Carey Theological College and Vancouver School of Theology (VST) offers a research methods program which aims to give students both basic and more advanced research skills, as well as an opportunity to learn with other theology students from different Christian denominations. By the end of the program, students will have a good understanding of different kinds of academic research, and will be able to apply the methodology of research applicable to their own field. After taking the research modules, a student will do practical work with a 'professor of record' which he/she attends to put the learning into practice. There are three components to this initiative:

1. Basic research modules (A-D); A&B to be taken in first year of course work
2. Advanced research modules (1-10); five (sometimes six) to be taken in first or second year of course work
3. Working with a 'professor of record' at your college – after all research modules have been completed

All St. Mark's students must attend at least two basic modules, Basic Module A: Introduction to Library Research and Basic Module B: Library Research Strategies for Paper Writing, and five advanced modules. Each module lasts three hours. Many of the advanced modules will be taped so they can be watched at a later time. Advanced modules will be offered primarily in the month of January, during VST's onsite class time. The student will receive a pass if he/she attends all required modules and completes the work with the 'professor of record.' Students must take all obligatory modules, are encouraged to take recommended modules, and are free to take as many of the other modules as they choose. Students will work with the Dean of Theology to determine which modules to attend.

Basic Research Modules

Basic Modules A and B are obligatory and are to be taken in the first year of studies, either in fall or winter. Basic Module C is recommended to be taken early in the program. It is only offered in the fall. Students must register for these modules through My LION.

MTHD: Basic Research Skills Modules

A. Basic Module A: Introduction to Library Research (Obligatory)

This module provides an introduction to academic library print and online resources, as well as to basic research strategies for paper writing. Students review library literacy targets and engage in practice searches using online catalogues, subject guides and databases, focusing on keyword and subject searches, BOOLEAN and using delimiters. Students learn how to critically evaluate their found resources from reference to journal articles to web pages. Citation styles guides are reviewed, including how to use in-text, footnote and bibliographic citations.

B. Basic Module B: Library Research Strategies for Paper Writing (Obligatory)

This module is a continuation of the skills learned in Module 1, incorporating academic resource research strategies with a breakdown of steps for research paper writing. Students analyze research questions, critical thinking and the breakdown of arguments. Using evaluative tools discriminate between popular vs. academic resources, students practice sourcing key resources to assist in developing their own thesis statement and argument outline.

MTHDC: Basic Module C: How to Write Papers

C. Basic Module C: How to Write Papers (highly recommended)

This module is a basic introduction to paper writing, research and organization, study skills, etc.

MTHDD: Basic Module D: Library Web Resources for Ministry and Leadership

D. Basic Module D: Library Web Resources for Ministry

This module provides an overview of social media literacy skills and popular software and tools: specifically, social media formats and their strengths and limitations in creating and/or promoting messaging and networking with different user groups. Focusing on using social media for Ministry activities, students are shown how to define their audience, target their messaging and critique which tools work best for their needs. Secondary considerations, such as time, IT resources, available skilled employees/volunteers, and upkeep are evaluated against social media formats.

Advanced Research Modules:

St. Mark's students take five advanced research modules. Advanced module 4: Advanced Writing and Research Skills and Advanced module 5: Research Methods in Theology are obligatory for all St. Mark's graduate students. Students may then choose three other modules from this list.

Those who choose to write a thesis for the Master of Arts (Theological Studies) degree are also required to take Advanced Module 3: Library Research for a Thesis in addition to the five advanced research modules.

Prior to taking these modules, the student must register for RMTHD in My LION and work with the Dean of Theology.

RMTHD: Advanced Research Skills Modules

1. Advanced Module 1: Human Research I: Introduction
A survey of the kinds of research done with human subjects and introduction to the need for ethical guidelines in human research.
2. Advanced Module 2: Human Research II: Advanced
This more advanced workshop on research with human subjects provides more depth about the strategies used in research and the best uses for each type of research strategy.
3. Advanced Module 3: Library Research for a Thesis
This module outlines the steps required in the process of organizing a research plan, from sourcing primary and secondary resources, to thesis organization to the thesis statement. Students review academic expectations of thesis-track programs, as well as a variety of help resources from Academic writing tools to online research sources.
4. Advanced Module 4: Advanced Research and Writing Skills (Obligatory)
This module covers skills needed for the production of research and academic writing: abstracts, literature reviews, annotated bibliographies, how to write an argument, writing a proposal
5. Advanced Module 5: Research Methods in Theology (Obligatory)
6. Advanced Module 6 Research Methods in Biblical Studies
7. Advanced Module 7 Research Methods in History
8. Advanced Module 8 Research Methods in Indigenous Studies
9. Advanced Module 9 Research Methods in Educational Leadership
10. Advanced Module 10 Research Methods in Asian Canadian Studies

RMTHD 500: Research Method

3.0 Credits

This course deals with the various methods of investigation employed in research. Particular attention is given to the methodology of education and theological researches especially the philosophical, historical, normative survey, the experimental and the casual comparative methods. Also, the course will lead the students to explore the specific sources, nature, ethics, and tools of scholarly research.

Pastoral Studies Courses

PAST 500: Introduction to Pastoral Counseling

3.0 Credits

The course introduces the students to an investigation of the theological foundations of pastoral care. It will introduce the student to critical counseling skills which will include dealing with communication, assertiveness and conflict resolution. Students will examine a variety of particular counseling issues such as addictions, loss and bereavement, suicide.

PAST 501: Pastoral Ministry: other

The course introduces the students to an investigation of the theological foundations of pastoral care. It will introduce the student to critical counseling skills which will include dealing with communication, assertiveness and conflict resolution. Students will examine a variety of particular counseling issues such as addictions, loss and bereavement, suicide.

PAST 510: Pastoral Ministry: self

3.0 Credits

Enhancing Pastoral Care Skills through 'Guided Life Review.' In order to be an effective minister, the pastoral worker needs to know him/herself well.

PAST 520: Pastoral Theology

3.0 Credits

The course introduces the students to pastoral ministry and service in the Church. It provides the students a theological view on the various ministries in the context of the individual and community dimension of human experience leading them to the appreciation of the dialogue between contemporary experience and Christian tradition.
